FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT CEMETERY LOT PROMOTIONS

As Published by Association of Better Business Bureaus, Inc.

Compare Prices

At the same time that you are comparing the provisions for endowed care in the promotional cemetery with those of established cemeteries, it would be advisable to make a similar comparison of the price of lots. Do not accept the promoter's word. Make your own inquiries. For example, salesmen for a promotional venture in lowa consistently represented that the least expensive 6-grave lot in a nearby cemetery cost $535. Actually, that was the price of the grave lot. It had some available for as little as $200.

In making your comparison, look out for hidden by-laws and rules that may limit your rights or involve excessive charges. In Minnesota, for example, one promotional cemetery proposed to charge lot owners a fee of $50 for the setting of a grave marker. Established cemeteries in the vicinity were performing the same service for a much lower price.

ed for the completion of the plan.

However, in a number of promotions, work has progressed only at the rate at which lots or sections were paid for by the public. Progress, therefore, depended upon ability of the sales organization to continue selling lots. You should ask what percentage of your money is allocated for development

purposes and under what safeguards. Are essential provisions for roads, water, fences and upkeep adequate? To what extent do these facilities already exist?

What About Development?

Be wary of profusely illustrated booklets or elaborate brochures picturing be aut if ul buildings, graceful fountains, and enticing views that are no more than pictures or drawings for sales purposes only. If your personal inspection of the property indicates that these improvements are prospective only, you should ascertain what factors will determine whether they will ever proceed beyond the brochure stage and, if so, at what rate.

Contracts may have been sign-

Compare Endowed Care Funds

You should also determine how much money is being put aside for use of the cemetery group for endowed care purposes. How does this compare with the practice of established cemeteries in the community? Find out what it costs them to provide endowed care. Of course, costs vary with individual cemeteries. Many purely local conditions such as the climate and the cost of labor can affect future costs of care. However, soundly operated cemeteries recognize that the public is owed at least a "minimum obligation" by any cemetery. Many states require that a minimum percentage of anywhere from 10% to 25% of any lot, niche or crypt sale be placed in the endowed or perpetual care fund.

Simply beause a cemetery has, or hopes to have, an Endowed Care Fund running into the hundreds of thousands or even millions of dollars, you should not conclude that the cemetery can meet its obligations. In many large cities, the income from $100,000 is hardly enough to employ one full time grounds employee. The more basic questions you should ask are: "What are the cemetery's maximum future care requirements?" "Will the cemetery attain this amount in its endowment fund after all lots are sold?" "Who will invest the funds and how will they be invested?" "What will be the return on these investments?" "Will reliable information on the subject be available from present and future management of the cemetery?" "Are all legal requirements of your state in this connection being met?"

Not-For-Whose Profit?

Memorial park and cemetery associations frequently are organized (and in some states must be) as non-profit organizations. This permits cultivation of the belief that the sponsors are prompted primarily by civic rather than by pecuniary motives. In actual practice, however, a separate sales group has frequently been organ-pose of netting them a substantial and sometimes exorbitant commission from the sale of lots. In the past, many projects which might otherwise have had a reasonable chance for success have been wrecked by unscrupulous sales agencies who had no real interest in developing the property.

Perpetual or Endowed Care Fund

Cemetery lot promoters frequently lay much stress on the claim that the property will be maintained through a Perpetual Care Fund, held by a well - known banking institution as trustee. Part of the money paid for each lot is to be deposited in this Fund. When cemeteries and memorial parks speak of "perpetual" or 'endowed" care, they refer to the future obligation of the cemetery to provide reasonable care and maintenance of lots and property sold, as well as the general grounds of the cemetery, including such features as the entrance-way, roads, buildings, parks and lakes. These costs are paid with income from the Fund which otherwise remains intact.

"Endowed care" is the preferable term because no one can predict into infinity the return investments will produce or the future cost of cemetery responsibility. Because of these uncertainties, some cemeteries prefer to substitute assessments for annual care, or to require specific endowments for specific lots and properties.

You should determine for yourself whether the institution named as trustee is, in fact, acting in that capacity. The names of wellknown financial institutions have sometimes been misused by cemetery promoters.

Does the trust agreement provide adequate safeguards for you as a lot owner? It may be so loosely drawn as to offer you practically no protection. In some cases, it has been found that funds supposedly conserved for the protection of lot purchasers can be spent at the discretion of the promoters. The so-called trustee has absolutely no voice in the matter. In such cases, the bank is not being used in a trust capacity but merely as a place where funds can be deposited – and withdrawn.

Can Burials Take Place?

No one can predict when death will come. Should it occur in your family tomorrow, can you use the grave space you have purchased? Has the cemetery been developed so that your lot is now available for burial purposes? There are many cases on record where burial lots have been sold in properties not yet dedicated as cemeteries. Purchasers needing space for burial have discovered too late that it would be necessary to keep bodies in receiving vaults until interments could be performed.

If you are a Roman Catholic, you should consult your Pastor to determine whether there are any objections by the Catholic authorities to burials in this particular cemetery. Cemetery salesmen have been known to make false claims that burials will be authorized for Catholics in their cemeteries and it is wise to have this point cleared up in advance of any payment.

Where the appeal has been made to buy sections of proposed developments as an 'investment" with predictions or promises of resale at a huge profit, it has not been shown that such purchases have been generally profitable from the standpoint of "investors." Commonly called "get-rich-quick-schemes" these promotions are more accurately described as "get-poor-quick-schemes."

The Nixon Problem

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall says Richard Nixon will be Dwight Eisenhower's running mate again in 1956-and the Nixon debaters can take it from there.

There is a Nixon debate, no doubt about that. Voters who dislike the goung vice president do so with a vehemence that has not been matched since the bitter hatred of Franklin Roosevelt. The similarity of the dislike is the key to the Nixon problem

Hatred did not do Roosevelt any harm at the polls because it was felt by those who would not have voted for him anyway.

The question is whether those who grow livid at the mention of Nixon's name would be among those likely to vote for an Eisenhower-Nixon slate in 1956.

More specifically, the question is whether there are enough Eisenhower independents and Eisenhower Democrats from 1952 who have conceived a dislike for Nixon to make him a deteriment to Eisenhower's second-term candidacy.

Why the dislike exists and what has fanned it into hatred is more a matter for a study by mass psychologists than for a description by historians. It is in part the result of the same kind of political malice that made the late Robert A. Taft a bogeyman to many Americans who never inquired into the source of the smears against him.

But in larger part, Nixon has been the victim of Dwight Eisenhower's nonpolitical prestige. Eisenhower is a hard man to villify; his stature is too great for the political pygmies who would like to destroy him.

Nixon has been the victim of the rancor that otherwise would have been spent on the President. And the rancor has been intensified by Eisenhower's deliberate policy of preparing Nixon to assume duties of the presidency.

That may help to explain why vice presidents traditionally have been figureheads. They would have become targets for political abuse if they had been anything else.

Nixon, the best prepared vice president who ever lived one heart beat from the presidency, is the moste riticized man who ever held the

Easy Way Out

The cynical resolution adopted by the Alabama Senate calling on Congress to furnish funds to remove Negroes from the state and resettle them in the North and West reveals the hopelessness of the race problem in the Deep South as far as public authority is concerned. Politicians have no solution.

Yet, resettlement has been the solution of many thousands of individual Negroes who have left the South to seek new homes.

It has not been a perfect solution, but it has offered hope in all cases and realization of hope in many cases. It has worked least well when Negroes relocated themselves in areas where there were large Negro settlements, such as New York City, Detroit and Chicago, It has worked better when they sought new homes in smaller cities and in semi-rural communities. It has worked best when they sought new homes with the advantage of advanced education, free from the lack of education that has been the historic handicap of their race in the South.

There is no easy way out for Alabama or any other southern state with unwieldy Negro populations - the tragic heritage of the slave system on which the slave states once relied to give them an economic advantage. But there has been and will continue to be an easy way out for individual Negroes who move away.

A Smart Move

Ike's decision to cut the bacquet routines is surrendering the cream of tomate soups, French pastries, ice creams and other high caloric and fattening foods to the Democrats, and it could be smart strategy, with opponents wirding up far below the President's physical form.

If we were Adlai Stevenson we would be suspicious of this move and either cut down the campaign dinners, too, or else bring his own noncaloric food

In any race between men who dodge the election year banquets and those who go for them in a big way we would make our bet on the former. French fried potatoes have cost many a presidential candidate his best chances of election.

OF COURSE THE DECISION will cost like some hotel and restaurant votes, and the lads who get up the French memus will cut him at the polls. (He will not lose the waiters votes, however, as the tips which the Democrats give at campaign dinners lost them this support long ago.)

The Republicans should realize, nevertheless, that the Eisenhower decision to conduct no campaign embracing heavy dinners can throw a lot of Republican masters of ceremonies and dinner committees out of work. There are many men who know no greater thrill than being MC of a political banquet; they have made it almost a career, and they will resent sucken elimination in this campaign.

Thousands of Republicans love to serve on banquet committees, too, either as chairmen assistant chairmen or mere lower echelon suggestion makers, Finding no Republican banquets around, they could go over to the Democrats in a body. Will it cost lke the vote of the linen supply companies, the cigar makers, the hotel chefs and the banquet hall decorators? Tirge alone will tell.

IKE SHOULD GET all the better of it, we think, since it is a well known fact that a man who speaks on a very light lunch or dinner always gets his message across better than a fellow who gets to his feet and begins with "I am very glad to be here tonight" on a full stomach and obviously in need of blearb.

We continue to get slogans for both parties For the GOP: "Don't Bicker; Trust Ike's Ticker." . . . "Ike'll Be seeing You." . . . "You Can't Keep a Good Heart Patient Down" . . . Now!... You can have Uninsured Motorist Coverage

It is estimated that one out of five Ohio automobile owners do not carry automobile liability insurance.

As your Town & Village Agent, I believe I am the first to be able to offer you Uninsured Motorist Coverage, as protection against this highway hazard.

In general, this new coverage will protect you against the danger of being injured in an automobile accident and finding you can't collect for your injury because the driver who caused the accident didn't carry liability insurance.

This new coverage is a part of the Town & Village Four-Square Automobile Insurance Policy.* Let me tell you more about its complete protection.

Both drive out engine dirt because... now Both are detergent!

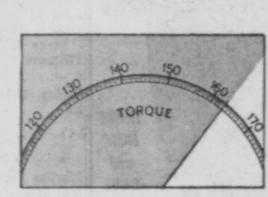

PREMIUM USERS

Buy Detergent Ashland Ethyl Gasoline. Reason: today's high compression engines demand an Ethyl gasoline. Ashland Ethyl is not only detergent, it's compounded with ICA* POWER TONIC to stop spark plug fouling, pre-ignition and knock.

REGULAR USERS

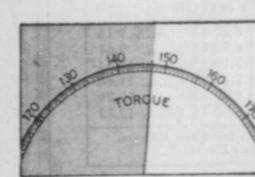

If your car can use regular, buy only Ashland Flying Octanes Gasoline-it's the regular that is different . . . different because it's detergent! Detergent Ashland Flying Octanes Gasoline restores pep, power and performance tankful after tankful.

*Asbland Brand of Ignition Control Additive

ASHLAND DETERGENT FLYING OCTANES

Proved power gain measured on the Dynamometer, the nationally accepted scientific measurement for engine power. Thanks to detergent Flying Octanes Gasoline, harmful engine dirt is driven out while you drive. Result: increased power, smoother performance, a better engine.

NON-DETERGENT REGULAR

But here's proved power loss measured on the same Dynamometer when harmful engine dirt from non-detergent gasolines builds up as you drive, robs your engine of power. This actual power loss was measured with engine developing maximum power, operating at a constant speed.

Why accept less than an ASHLAND DETERGENT gasoline!
